The 2018 World Cup is fast approaching, with national sides making their final preparations ahead of this summer's tournament.

We now know the groups after December's draw. England have been put together with Belgium, Tunisia and Panama in Group G.

Gareth Southgate's side were not among the top seeds, meaning they featured in pot two during the proceedings.

And with England's route now mapped out, Southgate will be able to ramp up preparations for the 2018 tournament. 2018 World cup, football News ,Gaming ,Betscore ,CasinoSports.vin
